Solution

1. A four hits violation occurs when a team contacts the ball more than three times during a single rally. For example, if the ball is passed between three players and a fourth player touches it, it counts as a four-hit violation, and the opposing team is awarded a point and service.

2. A Positional Fault occurs when players are not in their correct rotational positions at the moment the serve is made. Each player must be in their designated position relative to teammates before the ball is played. If this rule is violated, the opposing team is awarded a point and the serve.

3. A Lift violation occurs when a player catches, holds, or throws the ball instead of hitting it cleanly. The ball must be played with a clean rebound action; any prolonged or uneven contact is considered illegal.

4. Definitions of Volleyball Terms:

(i) Floater – A serve with no spin, causing the ball to follow an unpredictable and erratic path in the air.

(ii) Attack Zone – The area between the centerline and the attack line, designated for offensive plays, such as spiking and attacking the ball.

(iii) Blocking – A technique where players near the net raise their hands to prevent or return an opponent's attack (smash). This is a legal defensive move.

(iv) Screening – A defensive tactic where a player obstructs or blocks an opponent to free a teammate, often by standing beside or behind the defender to force them to move or lose positioning.

5. Net Violation in Volleyball:

(i) Reason for Violation: A player is not allowed to touch the net while the ball is in play if it interferes with the opponent's play. In this case, the blocker's hand touched the net, which was considered disruptive.

(ii) Legal Contact with the Net: Incidental contact with the net that does not affect play is generally ignored. Intentional or disruptive contact is a fault.

(iii) Technique to Avoid the Fault: Players should maintain controlled jumps, keep proper body balance, and avoid unnecessary movements near the net while attempting to block.

6. Illegal Back-Row Attack in Volleyball:

(i) Reason for Violation: The attack was illegal because a back-row player jumped from inside the front zone to hit the ball above net height.

(ii) Rules for Back-Row Attacks:

- The player must jump from behind the attack line (3-meter line).
- The ball cannot be struck entirely above the net height if the player is in front of the attack line.

(iii) Legal Back-Row Attack: The player should jump from behind the attack line and use controlled hitting techniques to spike or push the ball without violating the front-zone restriction.

7. Service Fault in Volleyball:

(i) Reason for Illegal Serve: The serve was illegal because the server tossed the ball but failed to make contact, resulting in a service fault.

(ii) Other Common Service Faults:

- Stepping on or over the end line while serving.
- Serving the ball out of bounds.
- Failing to clear the net during the serve.

(iii) Improving Serving Accuracy:

- Practice controlled tosses to ensure consistent ball height and placement.
- Maintain proper focus and concentration during the serve.

- Use correct foot positioning and body alignment to direct the ball accurately.

8. Volleyball Terms Explained:

(i) Spiker: A player who jumps and forcefully hits (smashes) the ball over the net into the opponent's court, aiming to score a point.

(ii) Warm-Up Area: The designated area outside the playing court where substitute players perform stretches, practice serves, or otherwise prepare to enter the game.

(iii) Ball In: When the ball lands within the boundary lines of the court, making it a valid play.

(iv) Assisted Hit: A hit made by a player after taking support from a teammate or any object within the court, helping to reach or control the ball.

9. Overlapping Violation in Volleyball:

1. Reason for Violation: The violation was called because a back-row player stepped ahead of a front-row player before the serve, breaking the correct rotational positions as per the rules.
2. Effect on the Game: Overlapping gives an unfair positional advantage and disrupts structured gameplay, as proper rotation ensures all players maintain their designated positions.
3. How to Avoid: Teams can avoid this mistake by checking and communicating their rotational positions before each serve and ensuring players stay in correct order.

10. Screening Violation in Volleyball:

1. Reason for Violation: The action was illegal because players blocked the opponent's view of the server, which is prohibited by the rules.
2. Impact on the Game: Screening creates an unfair advantage for the serving team, making it difficult for the receiving team to anticipate and react to the serve.

3. How to Avoid: Teams should ensure players are properly spaced and do not obstruct the receiver's view of the server.

11. Foot Fault in Volleyball:

1. Reason for Violation: The movement was considered illegal because the player stepped completely over the center line into the opponent's court, interfering with play.
2. Legal Conditions: A player may touch the center line with their foot but cannot fully enter the opponent's court.
3. Handling Near the Center Line: Players should maintain balance and use controlled movements to avoid crossing into the opponent's court.

12. Time Delay in Volleyball:

1. Reason for Penalty: Delaying the game is penalized because it disrupts fair play and is considered unsportsmanlike behavior.
2. Impact on Opponent: Excessive delay can break the opponent's momentum, disturb their rhythm, and create frustration for both teams.
3. Official Rules: Teams must manage substitutions, serves, and timeouts efficiently, adhering to the allowed time limits set by the rules.
